DUST CONTROL WORK. The Nash Street eight-acre parking lot of Granite City Steel Division, National Steel Corp., gets a cover of asphalt as part of a "bubble" plan to cut pollution from dirt roadways and lots. A company spokesman said the paving program began about a month ago. Late last year, the firm began cleaning some paved areas through flushing methods. Despite the steel firm's decision to go ahead with the road work, the "bubble" plan has yet to be formally accepted by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. Negotiations between the two parties are continuing. The plan involves the proposed trade of stricter road dust controls in return for more relaxed dust house emission regulations.

Hearing tonight on lead

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

The state air pollution control agency will give residents an opportunity tonight to express their views on a plan designed to curb lead pollution in the Quad-City area.

Tonight's Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) hearing will center around lead control strategies to be incorporated in enforceable decrees for three local firms situated in the high-lead pollution area.

The state estimates annual control costs of about $31,000 for the companies, with about 90 percent of that sum to be financed by Taracorp, Inc., 16th Street and Cleveland Boulevard. The other two firms involved are St.

Louis Lead Recyclers and Tri-City Trucking, both Taracorp neighbors. St. Louis Lead Recyclers was designed to recycle batteries from the lead pile in an environmentally acceptable fashion, but has been forced to remain closed (see related editorial today).

Tonight's hearing will begin at 6:30 in the Granite City Township Building, 2060 Delmar Ave. It is open to the public.

The state plan was formed after the U.S. EPA found portions of Granite City, Venice and Nameoki townships exceeded the national lead standard and that residual lead build-up in the soil is contributing significantly to airborne lead levels.

The state has issued a warning to residents living near the Taracorp lead smelter that they should keep their children from eating outdoors or playing in the dirt.

Blood tests are continuing to be conducted to check for high levels of lead contamination among those residents. No toxic levels have been detected.

According to the State Implementation Plan (SIP) for Lead, all three firms have indicated their willingness to undertake measures outlined by the state during negotiation sessions on the issue. A final agreement and state plan are tentatively expected Sept. 30.

Meanwhile, the IEPA has denied the environmental operating permits Taracorp needs to run its blast furnace.

Sasyk assails police report

By DONNA KIMBRO
of the Press-Record

Mayor Mike Sasyk vehemently addressed the Madison City Council members Tuesday night in strong objection to a police department report listing five officers who did not make one traffic arrest during the month of August.

"These men are professionals and should be doing their job. Don't tell me that there were no traffic violations during their assigned duty hours for an entire month. If this is retaliation against the city of Madison because they did not get a raise in pay, then I want to know for sure," the mayor said.

Sasyk continued, "I have asked Chief of Police Don Bridick to look into this situation and I want to know if we can legally penalize an officer by suspending him from work until he does his duty."

I will ask the council members and Police Board for some action on this when the legality is confirmed.

"I do not intend to have another report like this one, and I do not think the officers should just drive through the city for an entire shift," the mayor emphasized.

According to the report, Sergeant Norris Horton, Detective Sergeant Paul Bargiel, Patrolman Tom Voloski, Patrolman William Weidner and Patrolman Richard Asperger were listed as having made no traffic arrests during the month of August.

The report listed the remaining five officers as making a total of 18 traffic arrests for the month.

During August, vacation days were taken by Sgt. Horton (six days), Patrolman Voloski (14 days), Patrolman Weidner (13 days) and Patrolman Frank Baczewski (seven days). Baczewski also was credited with eight traffic arrests.

Patrolman Frank Baczewski's request for a 90-day leave of absence to begin on Sept. 22, was rejected Tuesday night by the aldermen after learning of the suspected reason for the request.

Alderman William Gushie asked the reason given by Baczewski for the leave of absence and Mayor Sasyk addressed Chief Bridick saying, "Do you want to give the council the reason Baczewski gave or the real reason?"

Bridick responded, "I understand the patrolman has taken tests for new employment in Texas and I believe he wanted to go there during the 90 days."

Sasyk added, "If Baczewski has other employment he wants to try out for 90 days and if he finds out he does not like (Continued on Page 7)

Steel profit for 1983

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

National Intergroup, Inc., which became the parent firm of National Steel Corp. on Tuesday, seems likely to post an operating profit for 1983, Chairman Howard M. Love said.

He is a former president of Granite City Steel, which has been a wholly-owned subsidiary of National Steel since 1971.

The new company, symbolized by NII on the New York Stock Exchange, expects to experience a net loss for the current year but sees better times ahead, aided by diversification.

Employees at Weirton, W.Va., will vote Sept. 23 on whether to purchase the Weirton steel division from National's Steel Group.

If approved, that action would leave Great Lakes Steel near Detroit, Granite City Steel and Midwest Steel near Chicago as the corporation's principal steelmaking centers. Weirton makes steel and also is a major producer of tinplate.

Although times remain difficult in the steel industry generally, National has become the first major producer to achieve profitable steel operation since the current recession began. The firm has taken extensive steps to curb production costs.

National Intergroup is emphasizing not only steel but financial services, aluminum, distribution, energy and other businesses.

Corporatewide, while an operating profit for 1983 is being publicly discussed, it probably will not be enough to offset a $100 million write-off. The write-off, taken in the second quarter on the scheduled Weirton sale, will help cause a net loss in National Intergroup's first annual report in early 1984.

Chairman Love estimated that 1983 revenue will total $2.6 billion.

The present capacity figure of 8.5 million tons compares to more than 11 million in 1980.

Steel in 1982 represented 62 percent of National's business. That proportion will decrease as the firm expands in other fields, but will not go below 50 percent, Love has predicted.

For calendar 1982, National Steel had a net loss of $462.8 million on revenue of $3.09 billion. Some domestic steelmakers lost more than $1 billion each last year.

The $462.8 million deficit included net charge-offs of $319.1 million from the Weirton proposal and from the closing of other facilities.

National Steel's Steel Group, headed now by Robert McBride, another former Granite City Steel president, returned to "black ink" in April 1983 after more than a year of losses.

Granite City Steel, which (like Great Lakes) has a mammoth continuous caster, has been posting small profits for the last several months.

Demand has risen for flat-rolled steel among auto firms and other producers of consumer goods, resulting in National's mills operating at 82 percent of capacity. But prices remain depressed due to discounting.

National is declining to follow a 7 percent list-price raise planned for sheet (Continued on Page 7)

Add 12 elementary teachers

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

The Granite City Board of Education rehired 12 teachers Tuesday night to avoid overcrowded classes. It also reemployed another teacher to replace a faculty member promoted to supervisor of the federal Chapter 1 instructional program.

Rehiring of at least 20 of 129 honorably dismissed teachers had been urged by the teacher federation during negotiations preceding the start of 1983-84 classes Sept. 2. A formula was agreed upon as a staffing guideline, related to the sixth day of attendance.

Sixth-day enrollment in District Nine totaled 9,303 students on Monday.

Elementary teachers recalled Tuesday night for a year's work were Stella R. Davenport, Sandra deMoulin, Sue C. Grable, William L. Harris, Brenda J. Keene, Nancy R. Orris, Marilyn A. Ferline, Cheryl S. Pond, Marjorie A. Schmidt, Shirley T. Sullivan, John R. Svoboda and Barbara J. Varadan.

Specific assignments will be made by Supt. B.J. Davis.

Ellen J. Voyles was named Webster School learning center teacher, replacing Gary Pfroender, who will assist Warren Collins in coordinating Chapter 1 reading and mathematics classes.

The board added four second grade teaching positions, at Mitchell, Nieder-inghaus, Parkview and Wilson; two fourth grade posts, at Frohardt and Marshall; two fifth grade positions, at Frohardt and Parkview; and a third grade teaching post, at Mitchell.

In three instances, kindergarten teachers will spend a half-day each at two buildings. One will be assigned to Frohardt and Wilson, one to Maryville and Mitchell, and one to Niederling and Prather.

No first or sixth grade teachers were added Tuesday night, nor were there any faculty additions in the seventh through twelfth grades.

With a teaching staff of 150 for kindergarten through the sixth grade, average class size based on sixth-day figures is 28.28.

This is down 2.48 students from the 30.76 average on the third day of classes when there were 138 elementary teachers, Administrative Assistant for Elementary Education Collins told the board.

A similar statistic shows a present 28.25 average in the first through sixth grades, down 1.72 from 29.97.

A further breakdown shows an average of 27.20 youngsters in the primary grades, first through third, down 1.91 from 29.11 last year, and a fourth to sixth grades average of 29.37, a decrease of 1.51 from 30.88. District educators consider the first three grades to be of greatest importance to children's progress, justifying the lowest teacher-pupil ratio.

Collins reported the following classroom average changes by grades, utilizing 138 teachers on the third day and 150 faculty members for the sixth-day enrollment level:

Kindergarten, 36.28, three full-time teachers added, for a new average of 28.33.

First grade, 28.36 and 28.72.

Second grade, 30.60, four teachers rehired, 28.62.

Third grade, 28.57, one teacher added, average reduced to 27.18.

Fourth grade, 31.35, two added, 29.04.

Fifth grade, 29.40, two teachers added, 27.20.

Sixth grade, 31.96 on the third day and 32.35 after the sixth day.

Supt. Davis noted that all of the elementary grades except the sixth grade have averages of less than 30 students per class, compared to projections of 35 when the school district was discussing '83-84 spending cutbacks last spring.

He said a Parkview early childhood class composed entirely of transported pupils has been transferred to Maryville School, and added that several schools are using all their classrooms.

Petitions oppose exhaust testing

By Pat Hay Lutz
of the Press-Record

A petition drive asking local, state, and federal representatives to seek the withdrawal of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency mandate implementing auto exhaust testing in the Madison-St. Clair county area was launched by the Granite City Citizens' Forum Wednesday.

The group's president, Don Conley, explained that the mandate affects Cook, St. Clair and Madison counties in Illinois, and St. Louis, St. Charles, and Jefferson counties in Missouri.

Executive board members of the Citizens' Forum will collect signatures over the weekend with the intention of obtaining 100 signatures each. They are also attempting to recruit other people to collect the same amount of signatures.

Conley said the group is petitioning against the mandate because "we are being mandated by a bureaucracy of non-elected officials, and they are forcing people to do something unnecessary and then forcing them to pay for it."

Conley also stated that the "potential for fraud" under the mandate is "overwhelming" because of "unscrupulous inspectors" and he quoted an annual cost of $5 million to residents, who must pay a fee for the inspection.

According to Conley, group members will seek signatures in individual neighborhoods during the weekend and the petitions will be brought before the general membership of the Citizens' Forum at its meeting on Sept. 28 at the Harold Brown Recreation Center, Amos and Franklin avenues.

AMONG THE 3,046 Granite City High School students are these, shown in a school hallway yesterday. The enrollment at the combined high school includes 806 sophomores and 795 freshmen. A wing of classrooms in neighboring Coolidge Junior High is being utilized to help accommodate the district-wide high school turnout.

Funds are freed for projects

Gov. James R. Thompson has approved exemptions for 26 construction projects, totaling nearly $4 million, from among those previously ordered frozen. Exempted projects include those that are emergency in nature and deal with life, health and safety issues, involve economic development, help capture "significant federal money" or involve completion of a project in progress.

State Treasurer James H. Donawald announced the start of a new process to accelerate the channelling of state utility tax collections into interest-bearing state accounts.

In cooperation with the Department of Revenue, he has contracted with a major Chicago bank to operate a lock-box collection and processing facility for the State of Illinois. About $600 million a year in utility taxes is to be collected under this new procedure.

The future for the least tern, a small shore bird listed as endangered in Illinois, looks brighter after two nesting colonies were spotted in Alexander County during an aerial search by the Illinois and Missouri Departments of Conservation. These were the first documented reports of least tern nesting in Illinois since 1977. The Illinois Department of Mines and Minerals received a final land report from the Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources on the suitability of coal surface mining in the Rice Lake Conservation Area near Canton. The area includes 2,694 acres and is managed by the Illinois Department of Conservation. A public hearing on the matter will begin Oct. 25. Copies of the report may be obtained from either ENR or IDMM.

Federal historic preservation grants totaling $412,480 have been approved as partial reimbursement to sponsors of 25 restoration, rehabilitation or preservation projects involving historic structures and landmarks across Illinois. All projects must be started by next Jan. 1 and be completed during the 1984 federal fiscal year. Federal reimbursement will not exceed 50 percent of any project's total cost.

For the second successive year there has been a reduction in insured fire losses paid in Illinois. "Although the $7.1 million reduction in 1982 was not as dramatic as the $24.7 million reduction in 1981," the governor said, "it is 9 percent and indicates that fire prevention practices by the public are working and that the firefighting techniques of our fire services are effective."

The 1983 Public Trapping Areas Guide is available by writing the Illinois Department of Conservation, Division of Fish and Wildlife Resources, 524 S. 2nd St., Springfield 62766, it was announced.

FINED FOR MINIBIKE

Michael L. Tomshack, 18, of 2410 W. 20th St. was fined $75 at a hearing last week before Associate Judge Thomas Hildebrand after being arrested for disorderly conduct earlier that day in the 2100 block of Ohio Avenue. Tomshack allegedly operated a minibike on the street at 12:45 and 1 a.m. although the vehicle is regarded as illegal for street use and was keeping residents awake.

Seek revised handicapped infant 'hotline' regulations

Citing the "negative impact" of a proposed notice to be posted in hospitals to prohibit discrimination against handicapped infants, the Catholic Health Association of the United States (CHA) has asked for the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) to allow modification of the notice in the nation's hospitals.

The CHA's comments came in a letter from CHA President John E. Curley Jr. to Betty Lou Dolson, director of the HHS Office of Civil Rights. Comments on the proposed federal regulations are due today.

The proposed HHS regulations, which would replace previously withdrawn rules, require posting of notices in nursing stations pointing out that denial of medical treatment to handicapped newborns is a violation of federal antidiscrimination laws and should be reported to the federal government.

A 24-hour "hotline" number is listed for reporting such incidents. The proposal appears to still be based on the underlying assumption that hospitals will protect the rights of handicapped newborns only under threat of legal penalty.

To allow such an inference would be an affront to the Judeo-Christian values operative within our animated Catholic health care and have earned such a high level of community trust," Curley wrote.

"However, unintended by suggesting that traditional values may no longer be valid exists for such violations to continue."

Curley said the CHA, in most cases, believes treatment decisions are best left to the parents, aided as necessary, for example, by the attending physician, hospital ethics committee, other family members, pastoral care, and social service personnel.

He said the experience of CHA member facilities HHS showed that many difficult and delicate treatment decisions that are ethical and non-discriminatory can be misunderstood.

Curley said the proposed HHS regulations appear to strengthen the justification for federal intervention and make several important clarifications and distinctions in the term "discriminatory treatment."

"We encourage all hospitals to establish internal processes to deal with these difficult issues, not only respecting handicapped infants. But each facility should be left to devise the federal regulations stem from the Infant Doe case in Bloomington, Ind., where a newborn retarded infant was allowed to starve to death after his parents refused corrective surgery on his effective esophagus.

Curley said that compared to the withdrawn rules, the currently proposed notice reduces the potential for "well-meaning but groundless and imprudent phone calls triggering unnecessary federal intrusions into the internal operation of hospitals" because it would require notices in nursing stations rather than public access areas.

However, Curley said, the proposal appears to still be based on the underlying assumption that hospitals will protect the rights of handicapped newborns only under threat of legal penalty.

To allow such an inference would be an affront to the Judeo-Christian values operative within our animated Catholic health care and have earned such a high level of community trust," Curley wrote.

"We encourage all hospitals to establish internal processes to deal with these difficult issues, not only respecting handicapped infants. But each facility should be left to devise the structure and procedures that work best for it and its patients."

The CHA, headquartered in St. Louis, is a voluntary association of hospitals and nursing homes sponsored by religious orders and dioceses of the Catholic Church.

It has a nationwide membership of more than 900 acute and long-term care facilities, 44 health care systems, and more than 200 religious congregations of women and men involved in health care delivery.

Many plants need water

Summer has been so hot and dry in most parts of the state that many plants are dying up and even the ground is cracking. John Heaton, president of the Illinois State Nurserymen's Association, is urging action to save these plants which need help to survive.

Examples of plants showing severe damage are winged euonymus, often called "burning bush," yews, dogwoods and crabapples.

"A little wilt is one thing, but leaves with edges and dull olive green appearance on the remainder are suffering from advanced drought injury," Heaton says. "If you have brown areas this can be a sign of drought injury, too," he said.

"If you have been in the ground moisture at the rate of a quarter-inch a day. That means in most areas of the state the soil could be dry and crumbly to a depth of as much as four to ten feet."

"If you have city water or a well that can supply extra water, you can soak the root area of the plants needing help. When you do water, apply heavily enough to soak two to three feet deep."

"You can disregard dormant plants because they run off, and rains of less than two inches water only the grass. When deciding what to water, it's better to water trees and shrubs first."

"Your lawn can go dormant and survive. Nutrition is important because they run off, and it has the capacity to come back when the weather gets better. If you choose to water, it's better to water dormant lawns turn brown, remember these numbers."

"One inch of water on 1,000 square feet equals 900 gallons and you'll need to apply it at least once a week under these conditions. Also, dormant lawns need a dry, dormant lawn in search of a moist, lush lawn."

There are some things that need help desperately now. Trees, especially young ones, flowers, shrubs and vegetables are all suffering from the drought. In addition to just pulling them through this dry weather, you'll be giving them a healthy, stable constitution for winter survival.

For flowers, shrubs and vegetables, slowly soak them to a depth of six or eight inches; about one inch per week will accomplish this.

"The slow soaking or injection method is critical. Spraying or too rapid a flow rate will create runoff and not achieve desired results. Mulching will also help now to conserve moisture."

"For trees, trickle water for a half hour to one and a half hours, depending on the size of the tree (fill the ground gets squishy) and then let it go for a week or two. It may take longer if you're just starting the process and catching up with the water needs."

Watering is fine and absolutely necessary to compensate for summer drought, but feeding now could cause a flush of growth that would make the tree vulnerable to winter damage, since there wouldn't be enough time for it to become hardy. Delay feeding until late fall—after the leaves drop."

Debate resolved over wiring in new apartments by Jim Green

By PAT HAYLUTZ
for the Press-Record

Questions concerning the electrical wiring inserted in five new four-family apartment units and two new 10-family apartment units on Kathy Drive in Pontoon Beach dominated the Pontoon Beach village board meeting Tuesday. However, the questions were resolved the following day.

David Coakley, current building inspector for the village, contended that the aluminum wiring installed in the units is "undersized" and must be replaced with properly-sized copper wiring before he would approve them.

Larry Burton, Jim Green, and Darrell Layman, all of B&D Builders Construction Company, contended that the wiring is satisfactory and, along with their attorney, Paul Riley of Edwardsville, presented inspection approval slips signed by the previous building inspector, L.W. Short.

"We have complied with the code (National Electrical code) and some of the apartments are ready to be occupied," Riley said. "It's up to the board to change the ordinance complying with the code if they disagree. Until then, we have to rely on the current village code," he added.

Wednesday, Village Board President Paul Bennett invited an Illinois Power engineer to inspect the wiring and, with very minor changes, the wiring was approved. Bennett says he considers the matter over, since IP has agreed to hook the apartments up.

Tuesday night, prior to the IP inspection, Green argued that Coakley's demand that "the undersized wiring has to come out" comes too late.

Green stated, "We have followed the code, got inspections and approval from his (Coakley's) predecessor. He approved it at the 'rough-in' (before drywall) inspection."

"I'm not going to skip on the wire. I'm depending on the previous building inspector's signature."

While several board members agreed with Coakley's contention that they do not feel aluminum wiring is as safe as copper wiring, they indicated that they could not follow Coakley's suggestion to disallow aluminum wiring in the complexes.

"We have no choice but to approve the aluminum wiring according to our code, until we draw up an ordinance changing it," Mayor Paul Bennett explained.

Bennett indicated at the meeting that the wiring would get the board's approval if IP inspected and approved the buildings for connection, which happened the following day.

In other business, council members confirmed the appointment of Sgt. N. Chet Ballew as police chief of Pontoon Beach.

Ballew, 36, is a veteran of the village police force since April 1972.

The Pontoon Beach Lions Club also presented the village board and the police department with plaques in recognition of their support of Lions Club efforts. The council then proclaimed Sunday, Oct. 9, through Saturday, Oct. 15, as "Lions Week" in Pontoon Beach.

In observance of "Lions Week," the intersection of Pontoon Road, Gaslight Walk, and Breckenridge Lane was declared as a temporary four-way stop intersection during the daylight hours Saturday, Oct. 15, designated as "Candy Day" by the Lions Club.

Lions Club members will solicit donations from motorists to assist the blind and sight-impaired, and the deaf and hearing-impaired.

Answer to lead problem nearby

At tonight's 6:30 EPA hearing in the Granite City Township Hall (story on Page One), we hope proper consideration is given to the fact that there already exists a financially feasible means to clean up the 300,000-ton pile of batteries on the former N.L. Industries property. All that needs done is cutting through some red tape, which the federal government has the means to do.

As we understand it, and we do not claim to have all the facts, an environmentally-safe method exists on the same premises to reduce the lead pile. St. Louis Lead Recyclers has the largest battery recycling line in the country sitting right next to the pile. The line is designed to recycle the lead, acid and plastic cases, using the most up-to-date technology to do the job rapidly and cleanly, without air or water pollution.

"We have the process, we have the customers, we just don't have the batteries (to process)," said Jim Stack, general manager of the company. Part of the problem is Taracorp, owner of the batteries, is in bankruptcy. A hearing on the case has been delayed. If the EPA can convince the federal bankruptcy court that the pile of batteries is a liability, rather than an asset to Taracorp, then the pile could be released for recycling. There is talk about putting the pile on the Superfund eligibility list and using those funds to clean up the pile.

Meanwhile, "We're just sitting here going down the tubes," Stack says, watching the recycling line sit idle. Certainly, some kind of compromise can be reached. Everyone's number one priority is to get the dangerous pile cleaned up. Stack's firm seems to us to have the best answer to doing it.

Instead, Lead Recyclers sits idle losing money, the lead pile sits there draining lead into the local soil and water, the bankruptcy court continues to keep the pile frozen and the EPA continues to use red tape to keep everything on hold.

It's time to explore the alternatives and cut the red tape, if the answer is as clear as it seems.

UN helped expose Russian lies

It is common in some quarters to condemn the United Nations for all the things that go wrong for the United States in the world. But after the Soviets shot down an undefended Korean airliner, killing 269 innocent people, and then claimed it only fired warning shots, America turned to the U.N. Security Council to expose Soviet lies to the world.

As television screens translated for the U.N. Delegates, a tape recording of the Soviet pilot was replayed: "Target's (strobe) light is blinking. I am closing on the target, am in lock-on... I have executed the launch. The target is destroyed."

Compare that to the Soviet statement that said: "It was natural that during the time the unidentified intruder plane was in the U.S.S.R. air space Soviet anti-air defense aircraft were ordered aloft which repeatedly tried to establish contact with the plane... The intruder plane, however, ignored all this. Over Sakhalin Island, a Soviet aircraft fired warning shots... Soon after this, the intruder plane fired the limits of Soviet air space."

After being exposed in the United Nations, the Soviets admitted they acted to "stop the flight."

That admission, devoid of any humane regret or apology, will not bring back the dead. And the Security Council, blocked by a Soviet veto Monday, could not bring any retaliatory action against the U.S.S.R. But the clear unmasking of Soviet lies has done more for any speech or retaliatory action to expose the Soviet regime to the conscience of the world.

Public opinion can easily be swayed by propaganda. But at certain moments of history, it can be crystallized by a revelation of horrifying truth. The truth is that the Soviet regime was no more able to stop itself from committing this atrocity in the air, than it was able to stop propagandists from filling the airwaves with lies.

This time, the world heard and the world saw. In a rare moment in history, truth conquered over lies. The United Nations, the world's forum, did its job.

Crossings especially hazardous

Familiarity is said to breed contempt.

In the case of pedestrian and vehicular traffic around Granite City High School, hazards at various formal and informal crossing points are worsened by students' and motorists' familiarity with the busy cross-patterns of those walking and driving.

Because close proximity to traffic is the norm when classes are starting and ending near Nameoki Road and Madison Avenue, some may become too inattentive—and unintentionally contemptuous of or unaware of the danger of injury and death.

Teenagers rushing to and from classes often pause between vehicular lanes while autos, trucks and buses pass by, all parties relying on the supposed safety margin of a few inches between unprotected human beings weighing 100 to 200 pounds and powerful machines whose weight is measured in tons. It is not an even "contest" and should not be risked so casually and frequently.

Traffic mishaps already have occurred at GCHS early in the 1983 fall semester, some involving injuries and some not. More accidents are destined to be recorded in future weeks and months.

As the saying goes, "school is in session" and all who are near schools ought to be as careful as possible. The lives at stake are their own, and those of other local residents.

THROUGH THE FILES

Compiled from the pages of the Granite City Press-Record

50 Years Ago

Sept. 15, 1933

Walter A. Reese, who gave to Granite City the beautiful and modern downtown pharmaceutical and office building some years ago, is now having a $15,000 addition erected, the first important construction project in this community in over three years. The new structure, on which work was begun this week, will front Edison Avenue and extend back to the rear of the present Reese building.

Reese, who owns four drug stores in the Tri-Cities, is a firm believer in the National Recovery Administration, both in letter and spirit. He feels his new venture is in keeping with the national program of "going ahead with business without, the ordinary precautions dictated by the depression."

25 Years Ago

Sept. 15, 1908

Malignant vandalism last night caused extensive damage to Madison high school. The building being closed to students today while repairs and clean-up work were underway. The school will reopen tomorrow but it is not known how soon all the damage will be found and corrected. Over a dozen windows were broken to afford entrance to rooms in the building and the worst litter was found in the two cafeterias and the cafeteria kitchen and dining room.

The intruders dumped eggs, pies, flour, mustard, sugar and drinking straws onto the kitchen floor and spread other food on the dining tables and cafeteria floors. The vandals used plastic mustard bottles to squirt mustard throughout the cafeteria, and two eggs were thrown against a wall.

10 Years Ago

Sept. 13, 1973

The Steelers of Granite City High School-North and the Warriors of Granite City High School-South opened their 1973 cross-country season this week. The Warriors of North High emerged victorious by defeating the Oilers of Wood River in the first athletic event ever held at the new school. North won 26-33 on a course stalked out on the North campus.

More than 800 youngsters between the ages of 6 and 13 will participate in the 1973 Tri-City Area YMCA soccer program, which begins this weekend. Jeff Chaboud, coordinator of the program, said the YMCA has 47 teams in five divisions this year — more than any other season since boys' soccer was introduced to this community in 1962.

Feels school lunch guidelines are unfair

To the Editor:

Today I received a letter of denial stating that my daughters are not eligible for the school lunch ticket program. I phoned and questioned the school board of approval about this. I was very angry about the answer I was given.

When I filled out the application, the instructions were to write the family's gross income. I did this! I also gave the child support income and I believe many applicants withhold this information. You are only given the lunch tickets if your gross income meets the requirements. What about the taxes taken out before my husband receives his paycheck?

If the program was based on "bring home pay," we would have been eligible. The taxes he pays do not leave a whole lot left over.

If my husband was not working, we would be eligible. The taxes he pays help support the people that aren't working.

Yet, because of such a large gross (but not bring-home) pay, you have no chance. The man not working snaps a finger, twists the truth to his advantage and ends up with himself living as well, if not a little better, than you everyday working man. He doesn't have to budget so the children can have a lunch, as I do.

I'm not saying no one out there wants to work. Believe me, I know how things are and have seen the hard times.

There are many people willing to work, but can't find a job and there are others, who wouldn't work if they did have one (a job offer).

My family has bills to pay, as everyone does. I am wondering why there is no help for a man that helps himself.

How many times have you working people out there been angry over something similar to this? I believe the lunch program should be based on bring-home pay, not gross income.

The working man has no chance. All he has is his pride.

Prefers income tax to real estate taxes

To the Editor:

The Monday, Sept. 12, news wires were filled with at least 10 bills passed by the Illinois legislature to supposedly assist taxpayers with ever-increasing real estate taxes. The changes ranged from increasing the homestead exemption, to requiring 10 percent of the voters to approve any levy increase, to a penalty for assessors who do not appraise homes within two percent of the actual value of the home for the purpose of determining real estate taxes.

For the most part, the changes passed by our political intellectuals in Springfield will have the same effect as rearranging the chairs on the Titanic and, unfortunately, shows a supreme understanding of appraising property.

At best, an appraisal of property is an art and not a science, yet the Illinois politicians want to punish assessors for a two percent error in appraisal when science allows plus or minus 2 standard deviations from the mean or a five percent error is acceptable in a pure science. Such a policy flies in the face of the laws of probability and statistics and borders on the absurd when the assessor is given $3,000 for assessing property correctly and is fined $3,000 when not coming within two percent of the "correct" assessment level.

Also, who will stand as judge and jury of the correctness of the assessor's appraisal? The Madison County Board of Review and its supervisor of assessments, James Barton? Someone has to determine whether the township assessor is to receive $3,000 or is to pay a fine of $3,000 and how does one compare a 1983 assessment to the 1984 sales ratio to determine if the assessment is within two percent?

The politico's answer becomes more ridiculous by the moment when the answer to the problem is extremely simple and perhaps that's why it does not get serious consideration. The answer is to abolish all real estate taxes and replace them with a flat-rate income tax, which would tax on the ability of the individual to pay, rather than on the accumulation of property, which hurts the senior citizen and others on fixed incomes.

If legislators are truly serious about tax reduction and tax reform, the flat-rate income tax with total abolishment of real estate taxes gives the perfect solution. What do you think?

Incident shows better lighting is needed

To the Editor:

"I hate to be the one to say, 'I told you,' but that is exactly what I thought when I read the front page article of the Sept. 12 issue of the Press-Record. The article I'm referring to is the one titled 'Empty Gas Tank is a Blessing'."

This deal (for those that didn't read it) with the incident where a man forced his way into a woman's car at 7:45 p.m. the previous Thursday in Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center.

The reason this story was of particular interest was due to the fact I've been complaining for some time about the poor lighting at that shopping area. I went so far as to have a manager from Schnucks come out into the lot and draw his attention to the fact that only half the lights were on. I mentioned to him that the Schnucks store on Route 367 had a parking area so well lighted that you could read a paper.

He said that the merchants had no say on the lights, because the individual or organization that owned the property governed it.

My contention is that if all the merchants put forth a genuine effort, they could correct this problem. Why should we gals be afraid to shop in the evening. Will it take more than the above incident to get someone moving on this?

Burial was in Calvary Cemetery, Edwardsville Township.

Ford Motor Co. will close its Rouge Steel Co., the nation's ninth largest steel facility, after failing to obtain concessions from the United Auto Workers. Ford said the steel mill is unprofitable because its labor costs are $5 an hour higher than at competing steel plants in the U.S.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Brimberry have been ordered by U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Robert E. Brauer not to sell furniture from their former Granite City mansion. The court trustee for the defunct Stix & Co. stock brokerage testified that the jailed former senior vice president was trying to sell furnishings for $18,000 even though the items were bought with Stix funds. The furniture was moved to a Brimberry home near Phoenix, Ariz., and then was shipped back to this metropolitan area recently.

Price says
he will win

Congressman Melvin Price of the 21st Illinois District is thinking positively about another 21st-his 21st consecutive term.

Aware that St. Clair County Board Chairman Jerry Costello, 33, Belleville, and Madison County Treasurer Mick Henkhaus, 40, Bethalto, are talking publicly about running for Congress, Price, 78, said this week he is unworried about the competition and will win in 1984 as he has done every two years starting in 1964.

Although remarking that it is too early to announce a reelection campaign decision, the veteran congressman, a Belleville Democrat, commented that he is serving actively and has the best labor record in Congress. He said a number of those serving in Washington are older than him.

Price is second in seniority among the 430 congressmen and heads the Armed Services Committee, where he is regarded as an advocate of a strong national defense.

1983 steel profit

and strip products by U.S. Steel Corp. and six other producers. U.S. Steel, the biggest steelmaker, has just announced a decision to close three of its mills.

The increase in steel prices proposed Sept. 1 by some of the firms "just is not out there," among customers, Love said, adding that current selling prices are "no better than they were a year ago."

He forecast that National's profit for the 1983 third quarter, ending Sept. 30, will be "pretty thin."

Love cited as factors the repair of casting equipment at Great Lakes and a power failure that halted production at an iron pellet plant.

The anticipated third-quarter profit will be aided by a $12 million nonrecurring gain from an exchange of stock for debentures.

This week's changeover to National Intergroup was a step approved by shareholders. The move revises the corporate structure along lines reflected earlier by the administrative creation of groups within National Steel.

National Steel Corporation will continue to serve as the name of the Steel Group.

A public information spokesman at Pittsburgh said, "Three years ago, National Steel took a hard look at the economy, worldwide competition, and the strategies and momentum of the company."

"It was clear National had to make fundamental changes if it was to grow and prosper in the 1980s and beyond, so management took the initiative."

"We began by dedicating ourselves to a basic mission: to provide a superior and consistent return to our stockholders."

"We reviewed and evaluated every facet and function of the corporation against this mission. Then, in August 1982, we took a major step that changed not only the way we do business, but the way we think about our business."

"We restructured the company into six business groups, each charged with contributing to our mission's success—steel, financial services, aluminum, distribution, energy and diversified businesses."

"The management of each group now has the broad authority and autonomy it needs to manage, modernize, expand, control costs, and compete. The new structure enables each group to take the initiative in managing its business profitably."

"National continues to take the initiative as it introduces National Intergroup, Inc., a new parent corporation for its expanding business interests."

"NII is the logical outgrowth of the changes we have made in the last three years, but it represents more than a new structure."

"It also stands for a new management philosophy and a new confidence in our future."

"We remain committed to becoming the best steelmaker. And we intend to excel in all five of our other businesses as well by taking the initiative now."

Sasyk assails report

It, then return here with the department, I do not think we can accept this as a valid reason and I think his request should be rejected."

The councilmen then voted against the request.

Patrolman Baczewski told the Press-Record Wednesday that he was told after the council meeting that his request was rejected, so he submitted his resignation, effective Sept. 23, to Chief Bridgman.

"I made application with several police departments in Texas while on vacation this year and was recently notified that I was accepted by a sheriff's department in Texas. Basically, I did this because of the money and I will receive several thousand (dollars) more per year with the new department," Baczewski told the newspaper.

Patrolman Weinert told the Press-Record that he was on vacation for 13 days, spent three days dispatching at the department desk and was on sick leave for two days during August.

"I really was not on the streets for many days that particular month and, in general, when you work the midnight shift there is very little traffic on the streets. Each man rotates on the shift schedule and will eventually work the midnight time slot," Weinert said.

The monthly police report prepared by the chief of police noted that there was a 23 percent decrease in crime in Madison during August 1983, as compared to August 1982.

A total of 13,689 in fines was collected for the month and in the monthly crime comparison it listed nine assault and battery cases, nine burglary, 13 thefts and two auto thefts for a total of 35 when there were 43 similar cases tabulated for 1982.

The council also accepted the resignation of William E. Garrett after 15 months of service as a dispatcher with the police department.

opening of new apartments this fall potentially could increase the existing Parkway enrollment.

Davis said a close watch will be kept on all class sizes, including the Marshall first grade (33.5), Maryville fifth grade (30), Frohardt sixth grade (37.5) and Parkway sixth grade (37 average).

Lowest current averages are 19.5 in the Marshall sixth grade, 20.5 in the Webster fifth grade and 21.5 in the Marshall fourth grade.

Six-day enrollment figures are: kindergarten 680, first grade 718, second 615, third 598, fourth 668, fifth 653, sixth 647, elementary special education 108, elementary total 4,688.

Seventh grade 749, eighth 765, ninth grade 795, tenth 806, eleventh 743, twelfth grade 661, secondary special education 96, total secondary enrollment 4,615.

Granite City High School 3,046, Coolidge Junior High 880, Grigsby Junior High 689 and elementary schools—Prather 757, Mitchell 665, Wilson 591, Frohardt 531, Parkway 496, Maryville 489, Niedringhaus 458, Webster 395 and Marshall 366.

School bus to Frohardt

A bus route to Frohardt Elementary School was added Tuesday night by the Granite City Board of Education, subject to state approval. Illinois action is expected in a week.

Estimates indicate that between 60 and 85 pupils will be affected. They generally reside north of Pontoon Road and reach Frohardt by walking south along Wabash Avenue.

In general, school bus transportation is given only to students living a mile and a half or more from a school building or from a public bus stop. In instances where there are serious safety hazards, a partly state-reimbursed bus can be provided for shorter distances.

Factors in determining a 20-point serious hazard in this case were:

Walking on a roadway—kindergarten through sixth graders, 5; no shoulder and no walkway off the pavement for 350 feet, 3 points; hazardous section of 4 mile, 2 points; 2-lane Wabash traffic volume, 100 to 399 vehicles hourly, 1 point; 30 miles per hour speed limit, half-point.

Crossing a roadway—K-6 grades, 5 points; 970 vehicles an hour on Pontoon, 2 points; four-way stop with a crossing guard, half-point; and roadway width of 24 feet or less, half-point.

These amounts total only 19½ but a board's judgment point was added on the basis of the following presentation by Assistant School Supt. Frank L. Kraus:

"The children have to cross Pontoon Road at Wabash Avenue. The intersection is confusing because Wabash is a single lane on one side and a divided lane on the other side."

IHSA rules Trojans' Hamilton ineligible in 82-83

By ALAN L. GERSTENBECKER
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

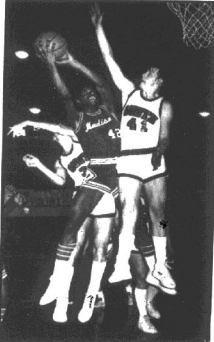

The Madison High School 1982-83 basketball team, as a result of the Illinois High School Association's recent ruling that declared an athlete on that team ineligible, has been forced to forfeit most of its games won last year.

The athlete, Terrence Hamilton, was a transfer student from Lincoln High School in East St. Louis to Madison High last year.

Last month, the IHSA ruled that Hamilton's transfer to Madison rendered him ineligible during the Trojan's last basketball season, a season in which he figured prominently in the Trojan's success. The IHSA's decision was made public in a brief statement in the September issue of the Illinois Intercollegiate.

The statement, a one-paragraph release under "Eligibility Decisions," reportedly reported the IHSA Board's decision on Hamilton.

"The Board considered the appeals of the executive secretary's rulings in several eligibility cases, taking the following actions. The board sustained that Terrence Hamilton was ineligible during the 1982-83 school year at Madison High School and requiring Madison High School to forfeit all contests won in which Terrence participated, and to return all awards won for contests in which he participated during the 1982-83 school year," the statement said.

Terry Hamilton, 42

Hamilton, a 6-foot-5-inch center for the Trojans, participated in all but two of the Trojan's 31 games. Frequently, Madison Coach Larry Graham alternated Hamilton and 6-foot-4-inch Keith Wyatt during the course of its contests.

Until the IHSA's recent ruling, the Trojan's record for the 1982-83 season stood at 26-5, which included a berth to the Super Sectional at Eastern Illinois University at Charleston and a stunning come-from-behind 58-64 victory over East St. Louis Senior in the Centralia Holiday Tournament.

The recent ruling, however, would effectively reduce the Trojan's record to 2-29 for the 1982-83 season.

Hamilton's role on the Trojan's squad was an important one, Graham said, but hardly worth an additional loss of 24 games. Last year, Hamilton averaged nine points a game and an equal number of rebounds.

"Frankly, I don't think the forfeitures will hurt our morale that much," Graham said of his 1983-84 squad. "We know that we won those games and that's all that matters."

Graham, whose team has had its last season pulled out from underneath him, took the news of the forfeitures well.

"There may be some good, positive things for area teams that come out of this," Graham said referring to the stricter enforcement of eligibility rules which may result of the forfeitures.

"There's seldom any questioning of an athlete's eligibility. At least in this area there isn't," Graham said.

Graham excluded Madison from violation of eligibility rules, and instead directed criticism at Lincoln High School.

"We've never knowingly violated any recruitment rules. When Hamilton came here we had every reason to believe everything was alright."

"I think since they'd been ruled ineligible, they (Lincoln) were headhunting, looking to pull someone else down with them," Graham said in reference to the Antonio Rhodes ineligibility ruling.

The Rhodes' ruling which Graham referred to was the IHSA's decision in June which declared Antonio Rhodes ineligible.

Like Hamilton, Rhodes was a transfer student. Except, instead of transferring from Lincoln, as in Hamilton's case, Rhodes transferred from Cahokia High School to Lincoln.

For three years, Rhodes had been a member of the Comanche basketball team. His parents are residents of Cahokia, and his brother, Anthony, was a senior at Cahokia High School last year where he represented the Comanches on the hardwood. Despite the apparent ties to Cahokia, Antonio enrolled at Lincoln.

Allegedly, Antonio was living with his aunt in East St. Louis during his senior year at Lincoln. Nevertheless, the IHSA ruled Antonio Rhodes ineligible, and Lincoln had to forfeit all the contests won in which he competed. Among those victories included a 58-57 victory over Collinsville in the first game of the Collinsville Sectional.

In that game, Rhodes poured in 23 points and scored the winning basket with just five seconds remaining.

It's that ruling, Graham alleges, that prompted the investigation into Hamilton's eligibility.

Last Nov. 10, two and a half months into the school year, Hamilton registered at Madison High School.

According to MHS Principal Dan Kostencki, when Hamilton registered at MHS, his parents presented cancelled utility checks for a Madison address as proof of residency.

No suspicion yet. In March, after the Trojans lost to Lawrenceville, the eventual Class A state champions, Hamilton transferred back to Lincoln High School where he later graduated in May.

"At that point," Kostencki said, "I became suspicious. Until then, everything was fine. The possibility of him being ineligible hadn't even crossed my mind until then."

"I was powerless. I can't make him stay... tell him, no, you can't go back to Lincoln."

Kostencki said the reason he was given for Hamilton's departure was his inability fulfill Madison's requirement of a semester of health classes.

Richard Brooks, athletic director at Lincoln, was as surprised to see Hamilton return to Lincoln as Kostencki was to see him leave Madison.

"I've got to admit that it raised some eyebrows when he returned and later graduated from here, especially after transferring to Madison during basketball season," Brooks said. "I thought we'd seen the last of Terry Hamilton."

"I can certainly see how Madison would have the right to say that, to accuse us of tipping off the IHSA. I can't speak for our district, but I think it's safe to say that its not true," Brooks said.

"The schools of Southwestern Illinois need to co-exist without antagonizing each other," he said.

"If anything, it looks a little suspicious that he enrolled at Madison right before the basketball season and then left after the season was over," Brooks concluded.

Kostencki, through correspondence with the IHSA, learned in June that actions were being taken which may result in forfeitures of many of the Trojan's victories.

In July, Kostencki, Levere L. Astroth, IHSA executive secretary, and the Thompsons, Hamilton's legal guardians, met at Lincoln High School to discuss Hamilton's eligibility.

At the time, Astroth, required that the Thompsons present proof of residency and the reason why the family had moved to Madison. With that proof, Astroth said, Hamilton would have been proven eligible.

That, however, was the last time Astroth heard from the Thompsons. It was because of the lack of proof that Astroth declared Hamilton ineligible in September, more than a month after the appeals meeting in East St. Louis.

Hamilton or the Thompsons could not be reached for comment. Neither at their alleged Madison address or in East St. Louis.

Sandy Podraza builds for 'a more perfect body'

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

Female body builder Sandy Podraza, a former Granite City resident who is one of the region's leading body builders, makes one thing perfectly clear about her sport.

She is convinced that body building will not make a woman's frame more masculine if done naturally, and she is out to convince other women of the same thing.

body," she said.

The answer to those missing curves was running. She started running about in April and was able to do two miles initially. Now she runs six miles a day to add muscles and curves to her arms and legs.

"I couldn't run for four minutes in high school," Podraza said. "Now I can probably run two hours straight. The aerobic exercises are really helping me out. Exercise makes me feel so good

"It does create feminine curves, and that's what a woman is looking for. If women do body building naturally, they will see their bodies become more feminine and they will feel better about themselves."

Sandy Podraza
body builder

"It does create feminine curves, and that's what a woman is looking for," the 26-year-old Podraza said. "If women do body building naturally, they will see their bodies become more feminine and they will feel better about themselves."

Podraza took up weights simply to get in shape, but the more progress she made, the more interested she became in body building. This year, she has been among the finalists in two regional body building contests. In two years, she hopes to be ready for the body building's two major contests, the Ms. America and the Miss Olympia contests.

She started lifting weights two years ago.

"When I saw how firm my biceps became with only a few hours a week, I got excited and wanted to get better. I continued to put on muscle so I thought I would compete," Podraza said.

Podraza, the former Sandy Parks and the daughter of William and Christina Parks, admits she wasn't very athletic in her teens. She avoided physical education classes at Granite City South High School because she suffered from bronchitis. Although she was slender in high school, she had very little muscle tone.

After she began working at an area Nautilus gym, the muscles began forming. She was happy momentarily until she saw how her body compared to those of the champion body builders.

"I was getting the muscles, but my body was so flat. I needed to do something to create more curves on my about myself, and I don't know how training to be a body builder can hurt you if you do it right."

Podraza said body building done correctly is relatively safe. However, there are a few dangers involved. Occasionally, there's the tendency to lift heavier weights than what the body is capable of doing. Various injuries can come from that.

The main danger for women body builders is the misuse of steroids, Podraza, who doesn't use steroids, said many of her competitors use steroids to build up muscle mass. Steroids add a male hormone which develop the muscles similar to the way a man's muscles develop.

"I have never used steroids," Podraza said. "I don't have the desire to build my muscles like a man. Besides, I don't have hair growing on my chest like some of the other bodybuilders I know."

On a more serious note, she said, "I am bodybuilding for my health, and I'm not out to destroy it with steroids. A lot of judges still judge on muscle mass rather than femininity. Eventually, I think they're going to outlaw steroids and we can all compete on a natural basis. Those who use them won't be able to pass the polygraph test they are considering using."

Body builders also have to go through other situations which could be dangerous for those who don't know the proper methods of preparation for the meet.

Six to eight weeks prior to a meet,

BODY BUILDING. Above, Sandy Podraza works on a Nautilus machine at the Renaissance Health center in Granite City to build her muscles for future body building competition. At right, the photograph Mrs. Podraza uses for her portfolio. Mrs. Podraza, a former Granite City resident now living in Collinsville, has placed in regional competitions.

Podraza begins preparing. Her and her coach, Danny Cox of Granite City, work on weights two and a half hours a day. The training regimen is very strict.

"You have to plan to the day when you prepare for a meet because if you are one day ahead or one day behind, you could lose the meet because your muscles don't have the proper shape," she said.

She maintains a low-fat diet with lean meats and plenty of vegetables and carbohydrates. She avoids butter and other foods with fats entirely.

Despite the dangers and the competition sounds tough, the competition itself is harsh physically.

Not only does Podraza have to do her poses, she also has to stand erect while on stage while the other women are competing.

"It's really tough to compete. The posing is difficult, but standing erect and holding a smile for about 45 minutes is really hard. After one competition, all of us were wore out and were out of it for a while. It took me about 45 minutes to recover," she said.

Despite the dangers and the pains, she is still working for the big contests, and Cox feels she has the talent to be among the top body builders in the world.

"I think you're going to be seeing her in the major (body building) magazines in the future," Cox said. "I really think she has that kind of talent. Body building is a sport of the future, and a lot of women like her are going to do it."

But the main benefit for Sandy Podraza isn't winning competition. It is knowing that she is in the best shape she can be in.

"I feel better, I look better, and nobody's going to tell me anything that helps me that much is bad. I really like myself now," Podraza said.

This Weekend Warriors, Trojans ready for grid games

This Friday, Granite City High School football coach Tom Wyrostek will show his team at home for the first time this season and will face a tough Belleville West team.

"They're an awesome football team," Wyrostek said. "They run a double wing option." Wyrostek explained which is a potentially powerful offensive formation.

Last week the Granite City high school Warriors played their first football game as a consolidated school and lost a tough one to Roxana, 19-14.

The Madison Trojans lost their opener to West Frankfort 20-6 Saturday and hope to notch their first victory since 1981 in Freeburg Saturday.

Kickoff time at Freeburg is 1 p.m. Both Madison and Freeburg were former members of the Quad County Conference.

The weakness that plagued the Warriors was first-half defense. All of the shells' points came in that half. After the Warriors settled down, Roxana didn't score again. Wyrostek said in the game against Belleville, his team will have to limit the effectiveness of a talented athlete in West quarterback Mike Lanson.

"We're going to have to stop the fullback up the middle and their quarterback from running the option," Wyrostek said. "They have a very balanced attack. It was evident with their offense against Alhott."

That option was given credit for two touchdowns against Alhott, both for large gains.

Belleville West won the season opener for both teams, 21-7, and Lanson led the West attack with 66 yards on nine carries.

The Granite City defense will also have to deal with senior quarterback-turned-running back Joe Houk, who ran the fullback for 65 yards on 12 carries in the Alhott game.

The Granite City offense will be executing their plays against one of the most experienced defenses in the area. The Maroons boast seven returning starters. The West defenders only allowed 145 total yards rushing last week and the only Alhott score came on an interception which left the ball on the Maroon two-yard line.

That defense will be led by senior linebackers Matt Studtmann and Theon Moyer. Moyer made eight solo tackles against Alhott and assisted in seven others.

The Warriors should be healthy for the game and will have the services of their entire roster with the exception of Scott Cant, who sprained an ankle in a tackle against Roxana.

Whitaker for field goal kicking, Tim Moran for kicking off and Terry Rajawitz for their punting. Wyrostek said Cant's ankle injury doesn't seem very serious but is serious enough to keep Cant from playing.

The Warriors will be hoping to even their record at 1-1 while West will be going for their second victory. Kickoff time is set for 7:30 p.m.

CHAMPAIGN — The University of Illinois will be the site of tryouts for the USA baseball team going to the Games of the XXIII Olympiad in Los Angeles, Calif. July 31-August 7, 1984 at Dodger Stadium.

Tryouts will be held on Saturday, Sept. 24, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Illinois

All athletes, regardless of age, race, creed, color, sex or recent amateur baseball playing experience are eligible to try out for the Olympic Games as per the requirements of the Amateur Sports Act passed by the United States Congress in 1978.

The best athletes will be selected from the tryouts here to advance to a National Tryout Camp in Louisville, Kentucky for further evaluation and become potential candidates for the USA Olympic Baseball Team. Baseball will be a demonstration sport in Los Angeles in a six-team tournament.

Conducting the tryouts here will be the University of Illinois Baseball Coaching staff which includes Tom Dedin, Ted Flora, and Lou Skizas.

GCHS kickers edge Althoff; shutout streak ends

CASEYVILLE — Granite City High School soccer Coach Gene Baker believes a strong defense is paramount to the success of his teams. Over the course of two seasons, the Warriors have amassed 24 consecutive shutouts, a phenomenal statistic.

But Tuesday afternoon, at St. Stephen's soccer fields, that string of consecutive shutouts came to an end. The Crusaders scored two fourth-quarter goals to trim the Warrior lead to one. The Warriors eventually downed the Crusaders 3-2, but according to Baker the victory was nothing to be proud of.

"We simply showed a lack of positioning as a team," Baker began. "Althoff played well. They're good competition and I'm sure they'll do well in the conference. But, thus far, we're not passing the ball like I think we're capable."

One reason the Warrior coach thinks his team has not gelled, thus far, is because "they really haven't been tested yet."

Baker believes that test will finally come this afternoon as the Warriors meet St. Mary's of St. Louis, a perennial soccer powerhouse. Last year, St. Mary's was one of two teams that defeated the Illinois state champions, The Dragons edged the Warriors 1-0, in an evenly battled game which eventually tipped in favor of the Missouri squad. Thursday's game is slated for 4 p.m. at the Gamble.

Coincidentally, positioning was also a problem for the Warriors last year against St. Mary's. In 11 instances, the Warriors had to relinquish ball control because of offside positioning. The Dragons were quick to move in the goal area to "trap" the Warriors offside.

Against Althoff Tuesday, the Warriors may have also been ill positioned, but they still dominated. The Warriors outshot the Crusaders 18-5 while registering nine corner kicks to Althoff's corner put-in.

Althoff led in two categories, saves and penalties. A persistent Warrior offense mandated six Crusader saves while the Warrior defense was only tested three times. Penalties were the most identical figure, eight for the Warriors and 10 for the Crusaders.

Matt Sheridan, one of the four Warrior captains, put Granite City on the board first. At the 6:15 mark of the second quarter, Sheridan scored took the assist from Paul Macios and Jeb Blasingame, and booted it in for the score.

Five minutes later, at 31:20, Blasingame scored what the rarest type of goal. With the aid of a wind at his back, Blasingame punted the ball three-fourths of the way down the field, it deflected off the head of an Althoff defender and into the goal. Blasingame got the unassisted goal. After a scoreless third period, Sheridan increased the Warrior lead to three in the fourth quarter after taking the assist from Macios.

Chris Braxmeier was Althoff's man of the hour. Within four minutes, the sophomore midfielder, scored two almost identical goals to move Althoff to within one, 3-2.

Both were looping shots, about 20 yards deep, that eluded the outstretched arms of Blasingame and dropped into the upper left corner of the net. "The goals were a big lift for us," said Crusader Coach Larry Mank afterwards.

"We've been looking for someone to help take the pressure off Rick (senior midfielder Rich Reiniger) and maybe we've found him in Braxmeier."

Mank praised his team and said if his team had not given up the two goals in the second quarter, the outcome would have been different.

"I think we played well, and if it not been for the two cheap goals in the second quarter we might have pulled off a win here," Mank said. "We still gave them a good game."

The Warrior's immediate test will be St. Mary's, and on Friday they'll Hazelwood East, another Missouri powerhouse. Action begins at 4 p.m. The Hazelwood East game was scheduled for Monday but postponed because of wet field conditions.

Golfers win two, now 4-1

Coach Russ Chappell's Granite City High School golf team managed a pair of victories Tuesday afternoon over Gateway East. Conference rival Belleville Althoff and Waterloo-Gibault. The pair of victories improve Granite City's record on the season to 4-1.

Warrior golfers John Tackett, Frank Hayes, Chris Carden and Randy Thurman teamed to score 163, nine strokes ahead of second place Althoff, 174, and 20 strokes ahead of Gibault, 194. Tackett scored 40, Hayes and Carden each carded a 41 while Thurman checked in at 42. The day's gold medalist was Jim Fogarty of Althoff who carded a 37 on Belleville's par 36 West Haven Golf Course.

Today, the Warriors host Edwardsville and Metro-East Lutheran High at Arlington Golf Course. Tee off is scheduled for 4 p.m.

This Saturday, the Warriors and Chappell host the Annual Granite City Golf Scramble, an 11-team tournament also at Arlington World Games last week at the Olympic training camp in Colorado Springs, Colo. Whelan suffered a fractured third vertebrae.

Whelan and his opponent wrestled off the mat and plunged head-first to the floor.

According to Walt Whitaker, Whelan's high school coach who has been in touch with Whelan, he is walking and eventually will not suffer paralysis. In fact, Whitaker said, the gutsy 22-year-old has not given up hope of making the U.S. Olympic team.

Currently, Whelan is back in Columbia, Mo., where he's receiving therapy.

Wiser Finishes Third

Warriors harriers finish second in invitational

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

ST. JACOB — There was a major difference between the Granite City High School girls cross country team that ran at the Triad Invitational cross country meet and the team that ran at the Granite City Invitational just four days earlier.

The girls knew who their main competition would be — East St. Louis Lincoln and O'Fallon — and they got mentally ready for the meet.

The preparation paid off. Granite City, which finished fourth in their own meet, finished second at Triad. Lincoln won the meet with 60 points, and Granite City was second with 77 points.

O'Fallon finished third with 83 points. Granite City's boys team chose to keep its top seven runners home Wednesday to get them prepared for the Belleville West Invitational Saturday. Instead, the next seven runners took the course and finished 17th. Venice, which is fielding a cross country team for the second straight year, finished 20th in the boys' division of the meet.

Warrior coach Pete Robinson stayed in Granite City to coach the boys, so assistant coach Joe Heffner was in charge of the Warriors Wednesday.

"We're very happy about the way the girls ran. They improved immensely over the last meet. They know who they have to beat to win and they know what to do in order to surpass the teams," Heffner said.

Lincoln's top five runners, the runners who count in the team standings, finished in 10th through 14th places to take the team title, but the Warriors made an effort to topple the Tigerettes.

Sophomore Lora Wiser edged Belleville East's Lisa Jones in the final 25 yards of the race to take third. Wiser ran the 1.7 miles in 10:15 while Jones ran it one second slower.

"I wanted to add a little suspense to the race," Wiser joked afterwards. "When we got on the track, I knew I had to stay near her so I could pass her. I wish I could have passed her soon than I did, but I thought I ran a good race."

Collinsville's Pam Quarengi won the race in 9:32, and Belleville West's Tammy Dill was second with 10:05.

The main reason why the Warriors finished second was the efforts of Wiser's teammates. Sheila Noel, a freshman, finished ninth (10:42). Another freshman, Kim Ames, finished 19th (11:01). Juniors Michelle Shoemaker and Angie Grabowski finished 20th (11:12) and 26th (11:25) respectively.

"We just tried to stay up with Lincoln," Ames said. "We did a lot better than we did Saturday, but still not enough to win."

Julie Hoffman finished 34th (11:58) and Connie Williamson finished 38th (12:16) to close out the scoring for Granite City.

"Those two girls were important for us because they kept other teams from finishing higher in the individual standings," Heffner said.

Flo Valley leaves GCC seeing 'Stars'

By MICHAEL BARTELS
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Playing against tough competition is good for a team, any team. And that is exactly what the Granite City Center Stars coach Larry Petri pointed out last night after his fledgling Stars lost their second game of the season to Florissant Valley Community College, 5-1.

It's hard to play against teams that have been here for a while, "the young Petri said.

Petri also pointed out that, "it may be a good thing playing these good teams. It shows your weaknesses. That'll help us in the long run."

And it's help they need. In their first two games the Stars have been outscored 12-1, but coach Petri isn't yet ready to throw in the towel.

"It's an improvement from our first game," Petri noted, but also admitted their strengths were few and their weaknesses many.

"With two losses it's hard to say there's any real strong point. We have many weaknesses. We haven't learned to play team defense. We haven't learned to play team offense. Those are our weaknesses."

Florissant Valley got on the board early at 8:56 with a shot by Dennis Kiley off of a Flo Valley penalty kick.

Nine minutes later they struck again, this time on a great shot by Terry Brown on a crossing pass at 19:04 and at 10:23 scored their third goal of the game on a shot by Todd Whitney off of a sideline throw-in.

In the second half the Stars looked like a different team, attacking with much more intensity. Coach Petri, who had given instructions to his team from the sidelines, began giving his team one fundamental piece of advice, maybe rubbing salt in week-long wounds: "If you want the score to be like Lewis and Clark, (who won last week, 7-0) then die."

They didn't die. They came out working harder on defense and attacking more on offense.

For the next 30 minutes the Stars shut their opponents out. But with 16:37 remaining in the half, Bart Andert scored on another crossing pass in front of the goal to put Florissant Valley on top, 5-0.

At the 74 minute mark, GCC goalie Joe Lemaster made the defensive play of the game, a diving shot of a Flo Valley penalty kick.

Only moments later, Ed Freezmer did something the Stars have been waiting for all season, he scored a goal. From 18 yards out, Freezmer dribbled a shot past Florissant Valley goalkeeper Tom Unger.

With only 28 seconds remaining in the game, Florissant Valley scored the final goal of the game with a Dave Gueringer header on a rebound off of Stars goalkeeper Joe Lemaster.

With the first meeting between the Infant GCC team and two of the most powerful teams in the Midwest Junior College Athletic Association (MJCAA), coach Petri feels next time his team will be more prepared to deal with them.

"I see some improvement," he said. "I hope it continues. If it does I think we can play with these teams."

In October GCC faces Florissant Valley in Missouri and plays host to Lewis and Clark.

"Our conference is one of the toughest in the country," Petri continued. "Lewis and Clark didn't win the conference but came in second in the nation. That shows what kind of conference we're in and maybe I'll give an indication where we will finish," Petri concluded.

The Stars travel to northern Illinois this weekend to face the Rockford College JV's on Friday afternoon and Sauk Valley Community College on Saturday. Petri is optimistic.

"Once you break the ice you get a little momentum built up," he said, "and that spreads across the team. We need a little luck to get a win under our belt, to get our foot in the door. We hope to come back this weekend with a win. They're not as powerful up here as the are here. I hope we can prove that this weekend," Petri concluded.

SIUE women kickers drop season debut

The Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville women's soccer team debuted last night in New York against Cortland State. Unfortunately, for the Cougars, it was a losing effort as they lost 1-0.

Cortland outshot the Cougars 21-6 and Cougar goalkeeper Lisa Sarich, of Granite City, made nine saves.

The game's only goal came at 75:37 as Cortland's Kathy MacDonald slipped a shot past Sarich.

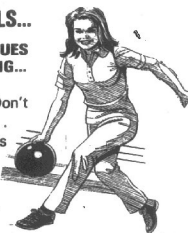

The Cougars continue their road trip in New York as they take on Ithaca College Friday and Cornell University on Saturday.

The Cougars make their home debut on Sept. 27 for a scrimmage against Meramec Community College and officially open their season on Sept. 30 as they host the Nike Tournament.

Nameoki officials blast trustee

by Pat Hay Lutz
for the Press-Record

Nameoki Trustee Helen Hawkins was the subject of both the "old business" and "new business" during the Monday night's meeting of the Nameoki Town Board, where she spent the evening countering attacks from Trustee W. Lee Adams, Tax Collector Norman Hall, and Tax Assessor Carl Macios, as well as from local residents.

Reading from a written statement, Trustee Adams rebuffed Mrs. Hawkins' statement at the previous board meeting that board members under former supervisor Louis Whitsell's administration knew that Whitsell's wife was being illegally paid as an employee of the township in the early 1970's. Mrs. Hawkins made a motion during the last meeting to drop a lawsuit filed in 1977 by the township against Whitsell, but Supervisor Harry Briggs declared the motion out of order.

Giving her reasons for making the motion, Mrs. Hawkins had alleged that board members under Whitsell's administration knew that Whitsell's wife was being illegally working for the township, but did not file suit against Whitsell until after Mrs. Whitsell had been employed for several years.

Labeling the suit "a political move," Mrs. Hawkins then suggested that the suit, which requests $10,000 compensatory damages from Whitsell, should be dropped.

Answering those charges on Monday, Adams stated, "The board was not aware that he (Whitsell) had not received authorization to hire his wife. The suit was filed in an attempt to recover funds from the general assistance fund, from which Mrs. Whitsell was paid."

He also accused Mrs. Hawkins of having political motivations in requesting that the suit be dropped, saying it "sounds like some political deal is being made for a board member to suggest to drop the suit, as Mrs. Hawkins did."

Adams then suggested that Mrs. Hawkins had called a township employee, telling the employee that the board was considering this employee's termination, and that, according to Adams' account of the employee's words, "Lee Adams was the instigator behind this move."

"This is a bold-faced lie," Adams commented.

Mrs. Hawkins countered with, "This is a bunch of distorted lies. I see why there was no agenda, so that I could not come prepared to defend myself. I am sick and tired of being told that we sanctioned that suit. It was filed in 1977 and I said then that it was politics, and I say it now."

Mrs. Hawkins contended that the board never sanctioned the filing of the suit, but other board members disagree.

Mrs. Hawkins said she called the employee mentioned by Adams to check on the employee's health, since that employee had been ill.

"(The employee) was worried that she would lose her job because she was sick and I just assured her that I would do everything in my power to help her keep her job," Mrs. Hawkins said.

Tax assessor Carl Macios then questioned Mrs. Hawkins about comments he had received from taxpayers which indicated that Mrs. Hawkins had informed them that Macios was raising taxes for no apparent reason.

"I have received hundreds of calls from people telling me you told them that I was reassessing and raising taxes and that they should call me to complain about it," Macios said. "If you have any questions, you can come to me, which I don't think you have," he added.

Mrs. Hawkins said that she had handed out copies of a Press-Record letter which encouraged taxpayers to contest their taxes before the collection of those taxes.

"I didn't tell them it was all your fault," Mrs. Hawkins related. "I just gave them this flyer and your home phone number, which I think is perfectly alright."

When Tax Collector Norman Hall responded to congratulations from Trustee Joe Garcia on Hall's collection of the taxes, Hall reported the collection of more than $2 million in taxes, and said, "I didn't want this job. I didn't ask for it, but someone (Mrs. Hawkins) told me to run for this easy job. When I found myself elected, I said that if I had to do this job the way it was done in the past, then I didn't want it, and Helen said to me, 'Don't quit, Norman, we need you.'"

Although Hall presented his wife as a witness to Mrs.

Due to unforeseen circumstances, the Chronic Pain Outreach meeting for Group Four scheduled for Sept. 26 has been cancelled.

4 WATCHES STOLEN

A burglar took four wristwatches from the West residence, 2715 Denver St., Tuesday.

Hawkins' alleged statements, Mrs. Hawkins denied telling Hall that he was needed. "That's a lie," she said. "Your wife would say anything. I love my husband and would say anything for him, too."

Submitting a written statement to the Press-Record on Wednesday, Mrs. Hawkins reiterated her statements of Monday evening, labeling the accusations, an "outburst" and saying they were "very silly."

The IEPA also has filed claims against Taracorp for the clean up of a 200,000-ton lead waste pile Taracorp inherited when it took over the local plant in 1979.

The claim was filed in bankruptcy court in Atlanta, Ga., where the national company is expected to file reorganizational plans. A Sept. 1 reorganizational date has been postponed.

Taracorp's reorganizational plans are expected to provide for the continued operation of the Granite City plant, according to Tony Lindsay, local plant director. The extent of the operations, however, are indefinite. The future of the lead smeltering process will depend on the final IEPA agreement and the price of lead on the national market.

Lindsay said the denial of IEPA permit renewals has temporarily closed down the smelter portion of the plant, which normally employs about 50 workers. Other portions of the plant, including the fabrication of lead products, currently use about 100 additional employees.

The state estimated the capital costs at $1 million for Taracorp to comply with the state lead SIP. The cost does not include cleaning up the large lead waste dump at the plant site.

Specific control requirements in the plan call for Taracorp to eliminate all traffic at the waste pile except for recycling purposes.

Other requirements would require Taracorp to:

— Fence all grounds to reduce wind erosion and inhibit public access.

— Define all traffic routes on the plant grounds and to apply an asphalt treatment to all such roadways and parking lots.

— Clean all traffic areas with a vacuum sweeper at least once a week.

— Provide plant cover on all unpaired areas or to treat the grounds with an asphalt coating.

Cooperate with St. Louis Lead Recyclers to lessen traffic flow on plant grounds.

— Require all plant traffic to use the main gate and prohibiting any vehicle used for on-site hauling to leave the grounds unless properly cleaned.

— Provide hooding or exhaust covers for certain plant operations.

In addition, Taracorp may need to reduce emissions from the blast furnace and other processes or to limit the number of hours the plant operates.

St. Louis Lead Recyclers, a reclamation company, and Tri-City Trucking will both be required to follow traffic and road treatment regulations similar to Taracorp. Lead Recyclers also will be required to take measures to minimize the dust while mining Taracorp's lead waste pile.

TO APPEAR IN COURT FRIDAY

Larry Rutter, 32, of the 2200 block of Washington Avenue, appeared in the Granite City court last week on a battery allegation. He was released on a notice to appear in court Friday, Sept. 16, for a hearing.

Rutter was arrested and charged in connection with an incident in which his wife, Christine Rutter of the 2100 block of Monroe Street, was kicked in the stomach several times and beaten on both arms at her home. A pillow was held over her face, temporarily preventing her from breathing, she also alleged.

Mayor Echols is president of the Illinois Chapter of Black Mayors.

Also among the 28 black mayors from Illinois and Missouri attending the reception will be Mayor Harold Washington of Chicago.

Friday night's reception will honor Mayor Johnny Ford of Tuskegee, Ala., president of the National Conference of Black Mayors, it was announced this week.

The first black to be elected mayor in the history of Tuskegee, Ford was only 30 years old when he took office in 1972 and currently is serving his third term as mayor. He is credited with Tuskegee being named a model city by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

A former political campaign strategist for the late Senator Robert F. Kennedy and an executive coordinator for the Tuskegee Model Cities Program, Ford was state supervisor for the Community Relations Service, U. S. Department of Justice, in Montgomery, Ala., prior to his election as mayor.

Ford received a bachelor of arts degree from Knoxville (Tenn.) College, a master's degree in public administration from Auburn University in Montgomery and studied journalism at the New York School of Announcing and Speech. He is a former district executive for the Boy Scouts of America.

Also attending Friday's reception will be Mayor Carl Officer of East St. Louis and Mayor Riley L. Owens of Centerville. The latter is president of the national organization.

The reception and cocktail party are open to the public. Tickets are available with a $10 donation and may be obtained by calling Amos E. Green at 1-332-8822, or Janet Walker at 1-314-382-3764.

The mayors also will meet Saturday for a workshop on "Establishing Relationships with the Financial Community."

The workshop and reception are a prelude to the National Conference of Black Mayors, which will convene April 19 to April 21 in St. Louis.

Campaign appearances by Democratic and Republican candidates for the office of president of the United States will be featured at the national convention, it was announced.

Key participants in the workshop sessions, which will focus on private investment, insurance and banking industries and savings and loan associations, include:

Patricia Shaw, president and chief executive officer, Universal Life Insurance Co., Memphis, Tenn.; Thomas E. Felder, president, Victory Savings Bank, Columbia, S.C.; and Robert E. Bowdoin, managing director, Family Savings and Loan Association, Los Angeles, Calif.

Prevo, director, International Business Center, Atlanta University, Atlanta, Ga.; and Theresa L. Watson, president, American Savings and Loan League, Inc., Washington, D.C., which is co-sponsoring the workshop training session.

First Presbyterian welcomes pastor

The Rev. Richard Kent Hunt of Gurnee, Ill., was appointed by the congregation of the First United Presbyterian Church, 22nd Street and Delmar Avenue, Colossians 4:6... "Let your speech be always with grace..."

The Bible teaches us that out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. We must watch over our conversation, because it reveals the condition of our spiritual life.

If we fill our lives with the Word of God, with prayer, and with praise, then the evidence will be known by our words. Our speech will be seasoned with grace.

Listen to those around you. How do they sound? What is in their hearts?

Now, listen to your words. What is in your heart?

Let your speech be always with grace.

Start today.

First Assembly dedicates chimes

The Carillon Chimes, donated to First Assembly of God Church, were dedicated during the worship service Sunday. This instrument was selected and given in memory of Carl Ebling and in honor of his wife Mattie. Mr. Ebling died Nov. 14, 1981.

The chimes will play at regular intervals from the tower on Madison Avenue. It will ring the calls to worship and peals for weddings, other celebrations, and will also toll for solemn occasions, Rev. C. Dale Edwards announces.

In addition to its automatic functions, the instrument is played from its keyboard of 25 chimes. These can be played either as a tower recital, or within the church sanctuary only, or with the organ as accompaniment during services or musical programs.

The congregation shared in a sincere prayer Sunday that the chimes would serve as a pleasant reminder to the community that God is always present and ready to listen to our prayers, Rev. Edwards said.

The Schulerich Carillons, Inc. of Pennsylvania, known all over the world for the carillons, installed the chimes, the minister added.

organization's theme song, "In The Garden." Devotions for the day were presented by Mrs. Mary Davis.

Deciding on daytime care

By CATHERINE MAUCK
Homemaking Adviser

As busy fall agendas begin to take shape and more women decide to return to work outside of their homes, enrollments at day care centers are increasing.

If you're among the many seeking day care for your child or children, you will want to match a center or day care home to you and your child's needs.

While a day care provider won't be "raising" your child, it's important to select a facility you feel comfortable and confident with since your child will be spending a significant amount of time there.

A facility that is just right for one child may be totally wrong for another, even if the two are siblings.

Your first decision in choosing suitable day care will be to weigh the pluses and minuses of day care centers versus family day care homes, where children are cared for most often by another mother in her own home.

Family day care is often the best choice for infants and children under three years old, children who are handicapped, children whose parents work irregular hours, families with several children of different ages needing care, children who don't function well in large groups, and school-age children needing care before and after school or during school vacations and holidays.

On the other hand, the day care center is a good choice for children who are ready for a more structured educational setting than a home can provide, who need regular full-day care, and who need an opportunity to interact with other children their own age.

After you make a decision on which type of care facility you want for your child, you will want to answer some questions so you can further narrow down your choices.

When visiting centers you are considering, ask yourself: Who will care for the child? What activities are provided for the child? What is the environment like? Consider discipline, toilet training, feeding and eating patterns, insurance, and business details.

You can help our children adjust to day care by providing some simple preparation. Discuss the center of home in positive terms. Perhaps take children for rides by a center or home several times before the child's first day there, and encourage children to ask questions about the center or home.

Watch for signs from your children to check how their adjustment is going and to evaluate their compatibility with the day care choice you made.

For example, after a few weeks, children who are happy about their day care arrangement and who have made a successful adjustment usually will talk about what they have done during the day once they get home, talk about the caregiver and even quote him or her frequently, be eager to go but just as happy to leave the center or home, and continue the same eating and sleeping habits they had before.

However, if after several weeks your child cries when taken to the center or home, becomes nervous or frightened whenever he or she can't see you, or begins thumb-sucking, bed-wetting, refusing to eat or gives other indications of tension, you may need to meet with the day care center staff or home care provider to see if they know what is troubling the child and have ideas for alleviating the problem.

Remember, not every day care home or center is right for every child, no matter how good the staff or the program.

You may need to try another arrangement before both you and your child, as well as the day care center staff or home provider, are completely satisfied.

Abolish SIUE major in engineering science

Abolishment of the major in engineering science in the bachelor of science in engineering degree program at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has been approved by the SIU Board of Trustees.

University officials explained that the degree program consisted only of courses offered in the current disciplinary programs of civil engineering and electrical engineering. The faculty of the School of Engineering contended that training in one of the other engineering majors or in one of the sciences with a minor in engineering would prepare students as well as the broad-based engineering science program.

No faculty are presently assigned to the program and no separate courses are listed in the undergraduate catalog. An internal review conducted by the School of Science and Technology in 1979-80 recommended the action, and the last program majors completed graduation requirements at the end of fall quarter, 1982.

The School of Engineering will continue to offer undergraduate degree programs in civil engineering, electrical engineering, industrial engineering and construction.

Senators urge revised rules for gas pricing

U. S. Senator Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.) and three other senators from Midwestern states have urged the Economic Regulatory Administration (ERA) to adopt revised criteria for judging whether overpriced natural gas should be imported.

"Consumers in Illinois, Missouri, Michigan and other gas-consuming states cannot tolerate paying exorbitant prices for foreign gas any longer," said Percy. "The American people should pay no more than fair market prices for any imported energy at any time under any circumstances. Changing the criteria upon which ERA authorizes gas imports is critical to this effort."

Percy's remarks came in a prepared statement jointly submitted by U. S. Senators Alan J. Dixon (D-Ill.), John Danforth (R-Mo.) and Carl Levin (D-Mich.) to a conference on natural gas imports sponsored by the ERA, the government agency responsible for certifying on a project-by-project basis if the importation of gas is in the public interest.

Illinois receives imported gas from Canada and Mexico and imports liquefied natural gas (LNG) from Algeria. This gas is sold at prices well above the price of domestic gas currently available. Algerian LNG represents about seven percent of the gas supplied by—by 23 percent of the total gas costs of—Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Company, which serves central Illinois, including buildings supplied by Illinois Power Co.

"We must note skeptically, as our constituents do, that conferences often accomplish very little except to allow the gentleman to claim that it is doing something about an issue. We trust that this is not the case with this conference, and that we will see this revised criteria in place and in use by the beginning of the heating season," said the senators.

Senator Percy held a hearing on the problem of high-priced gas imports on July 28, and has introduced legislation (S-370) to address the problem.

WILDLIFE AWARD GIVEN VADALABENE

Senator Sam M. Vadalabene (D-Edwardsville) has received the "1983 Legislature Service Award" from the Illinois Wildlife Federation at the organization's 47th annual convention in Alton during the weekend.

Richard Lockhart and Gail Mennecke spoke for the federation in commenting on the award. They thanked Vadalabene for the "wholehearted support" he gave to the sportsman of this state this last session.

"As one who appreciates the pleasures of the great outdoors, I am truly grateful for this recognition," Vadalabene said. "I have always counted on the support of the Illinois Wildlife Federation because I respected the sensible way they approach their goals. This award will inspire men to sustain my efforts in protecting wildlife."

Balloons to fill skies Saturday

The 11th annual Great Forest Park Balloon Race will begin Saturday afternoon in Forest Park, St. Louis.

According to wind directions, balloons may be seen in the Quad-City area skies around 1:15 p.m. that day. Last year, "hound" balloons chased a "hare" balloon to a field near East Carondelet on the east bank of the Mississippi River. The previous year, most balloons landed near Cottonwood Station, Glen Carbon. In earlier years, they have landed in Pontoon Beach and some in Granite City.

Events officially begin noon Friday with a parade of balloonists and their sponsors through downtown St. Louis from 15th and Olive streets to Kiener Plaza. The parade is expected to arrive at the plaza at about 12:30 p.m. when a ride in a hot-air balloon will go to the highest bidder in an auction.

In pre-race festivities later Friday afternoon, hot-air balloons will fill the St. Louis skies in a special promotional flight to commemorate the 200th Anniversary of manned flight.

The race itself will be conducted Saturday at the nine-hole golf course in Forest Park, near Skinker and Lindell boulevards. At the park site, the "Nighty Mississippi Concert Band" will present a 2 p.m. concert. An amateur photography contest will be conducted at 3 p.m., and there will be a skydiving exhibit at 4 p.m.

The hot-air "hare" will lift-off about 4:45 p.m. The time will vary according to weather conditions. Approximately 10 minutes later, 49 "hounds" will be launched in pursuit. The balloon landing closest to the hare will be declared the winner.

The race will last less than two hours. The balloons are expected to travel about 10 to 20 miles. The winner last year landed less than one foot away from his target after a 10-mile flight.

According to sponsors, the Great Forest Park Balloon Race is the best-attended balloon event in the world. It is sponsored by the St. Louis Department of Parks and Recreation and by 50 commercial firms.

Dave Trokey, chairman of the skate-a-thon, explains, "When you participate on number of hours participants skate, prizes will be awarded to participants based upon the amount of money raised.

50th Illinois state lottery millionaire

John W. Adams of Galesburg became the Illinois State Lottery's 50th millionaire when he was the only person to match all six winning numbers in lotto to win $2,161,220 this week.

He will receive his prize in 20 annual payments of $108,061.

Lotto Supt. Michael J. Jones said Adams selected his numbers using the birthdays of his wife, Shirley, and one of his two daughters, Sally Haugen of Steele, N.D.

Adams' prize is the third largest ever awarded by the Illinois State Lottery. Friday Mahaffey of Matteson, Ill., won $3.6 million in the May 10 drawing, and three winners each collected $2.3 million in the Aug. 20 lotto.

Adams, 56, is manager of the Galesburg Chapter Credit Union.

He said he is an infrequent lotto player and has played the game only three times in the past several months, always playing the same numbers — 05, 06, 08, 21, 30 and 31.

In addition to Adams' grand prize, 346 players matched five of the six winning numbers and each will collect $1,108.

Also, 16,035 players matched four of the six and will each collect $35.50. Letto is the state lottery's only parimutuel game, in which prizes depend on lotto ticket sales and on the number of winners in each prize category.

Adams' prize was determined in the following way: Total lotto sales in the week before Saturday night's drawing were $3,806,263. Those sales resulted in a grand prize pool of $932,334, enough cash to purchase a 20-year annuity totaling $2,161,220.

In weeks in which there is no grand prize winner, about 80 percent of the cash in the grand prize pool is "rolled over" and added to the grand prize pool for the next week's drawing. There was no rollover in Adams' prize since there was a grand prize winner in the Sept. 3 lotto.

Jones pointed out that if more than one winner had matched all six winning numbers Saturday, they would have shared the actual grand prize pool of $932,334.
